

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides for the composition, method of preparing and method of using a nanocomposite in dental applications. The use of the nanocomposite in dental applications substantially influences the dental products strength, durability, longevity, barrier properties and other desirable physical characteristics.

5

10034807-10001